LUCKY No. 17?

By Carlin Treat

BRUNO PELLEGRINI
Triple-threat Star.

This is the seventeenth "Little-Big Game" . . . and today the Broncos will be seeking their seventeenth consecutive triumph. Will No. 17 be kind to Santa Clara?

The pressure will be on "full force" when the undefeated and untied Broncos prance on to the field today.

Possessors of a 16-game winning streak, six of which were rung up this Fall, the Red and Gold clad warriors of Coach L. T. (Buck) Shaw realize that there is an end to everything—and that end can come today. When the Gaels and Broncos clash, past laurels mean nothing. And full well has the silver-haired coaching genius of the Mission school impressed this on the minds of his players.

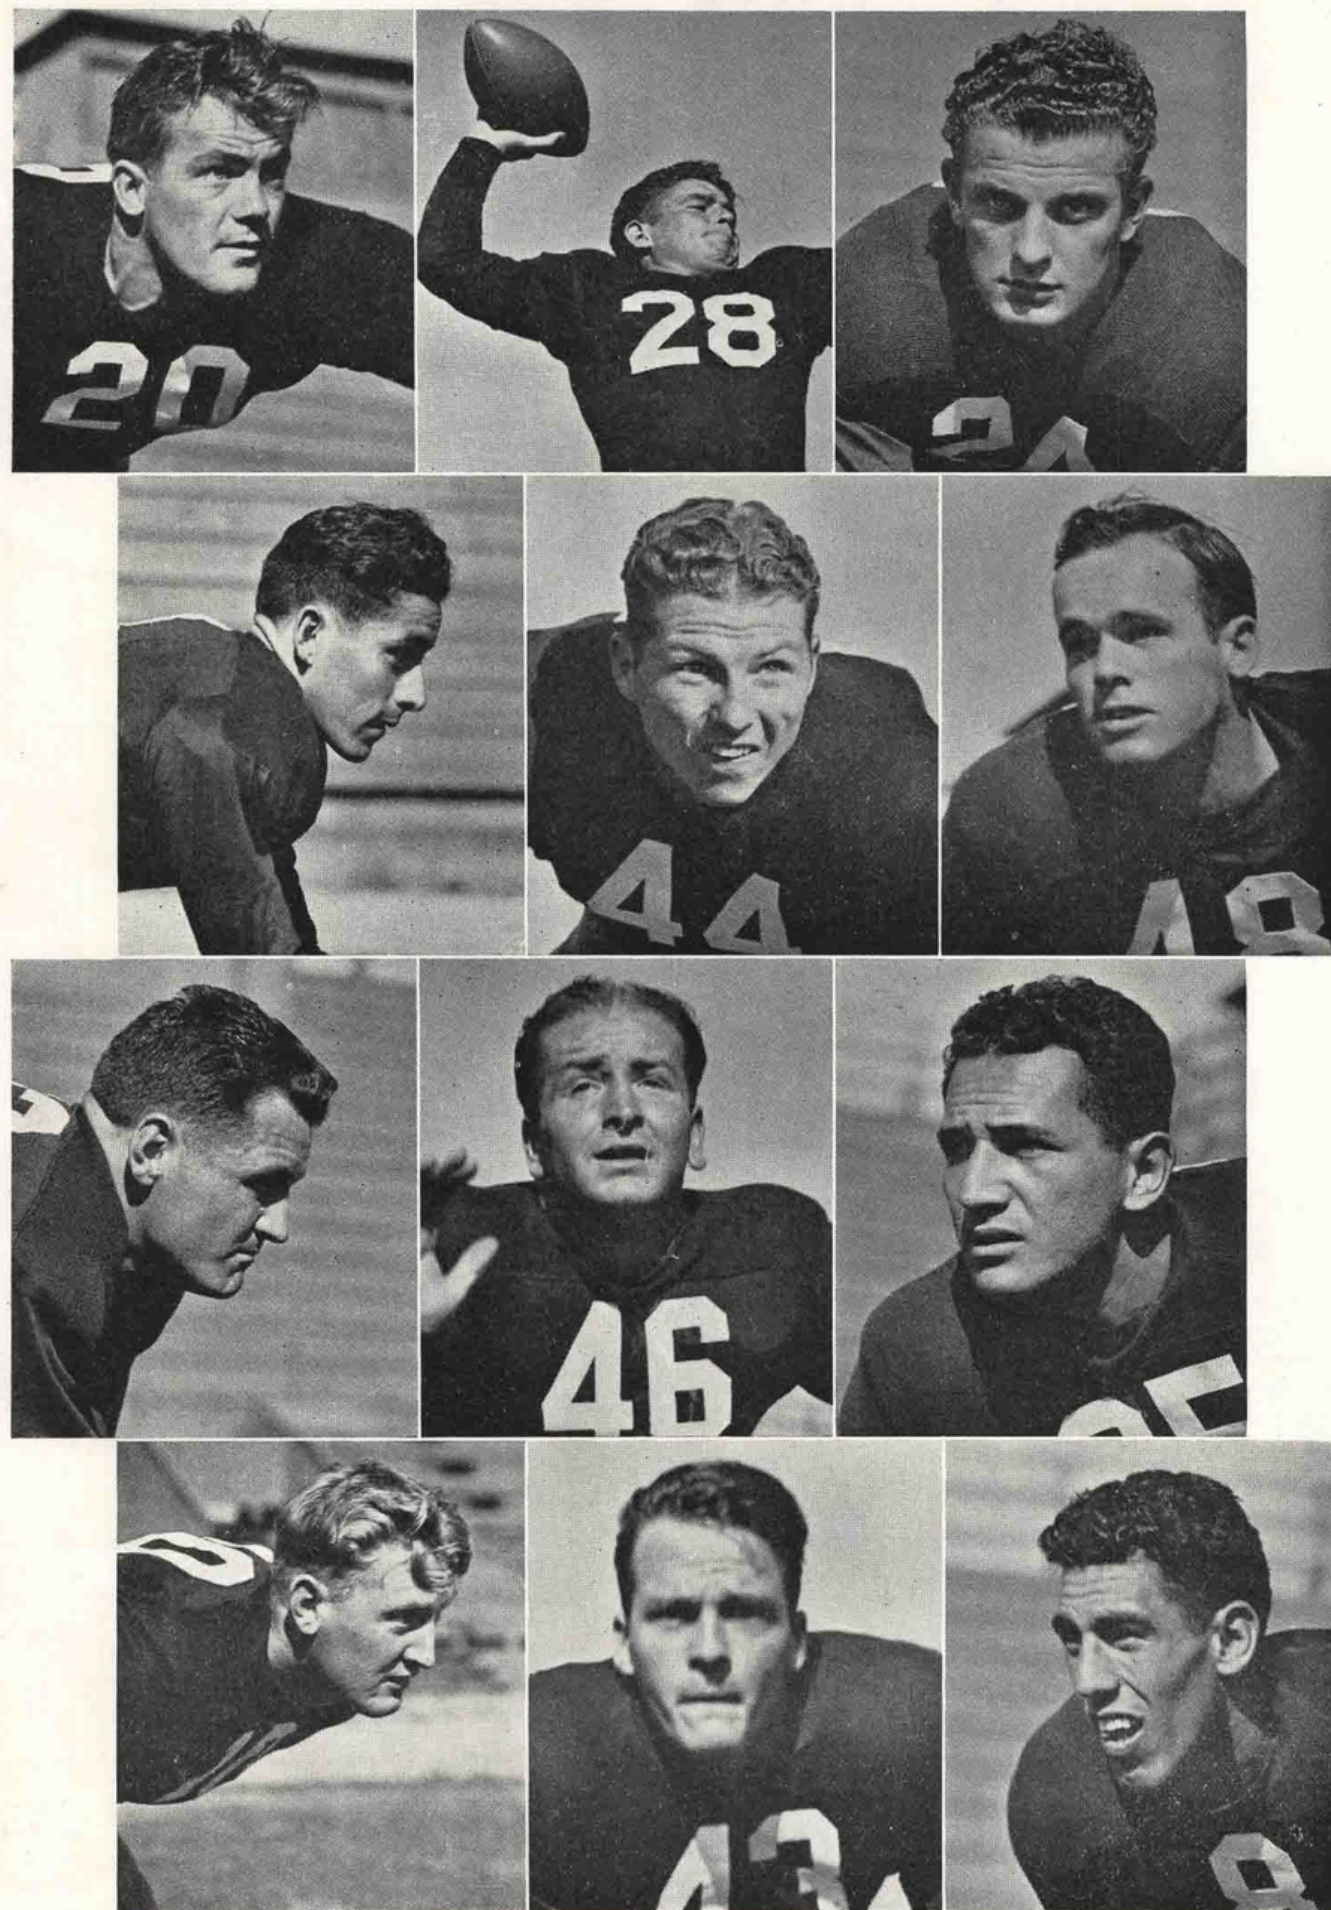

It's going to be a great battle—as all Santa Clara-St. Mary's games are—and the Bronco players are conscious of that more than any one else. A Moragan triumph will undoubtedly relegate them to an "also-ran" status among the nation's stand-out grid elevens, while a victory may pave the way to further post-season laurels. So much for the speculative aspect of Kezar's most noteworthy bill of fare for the '38 season. Now to the personalities who will carry the hopes of thousands of ardent Bronco supporters.

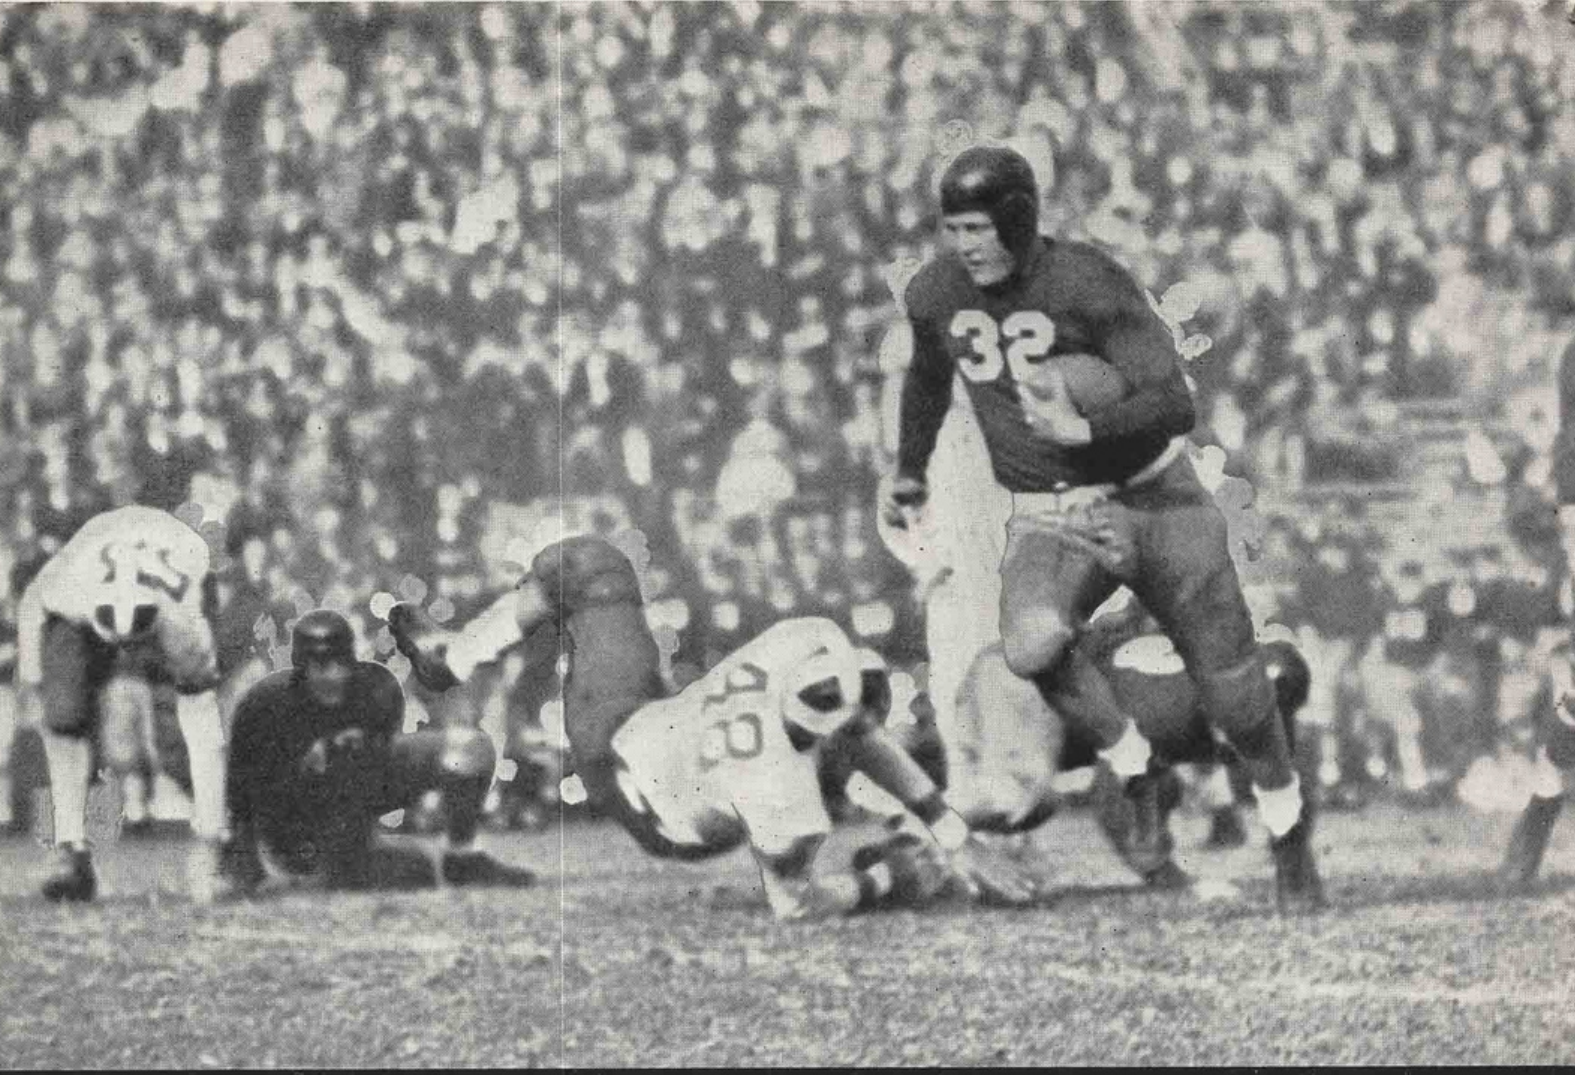

First, be prepared to thumb through your Kick-off frequently for Coach Shaw is in the habit of using a great number of players. Two separate units will undoubtedly see action this afternoon as well as a number of reserves.

The starting eleven—the "Buckaroos"—will consist of Jim Coughlan, good-looking interference smasher par excellence from San Francisco, and Bill Anahu, machine-like workman from Hawaii, will open at ends. Al Wolff, Santa Clara's All-American candidate, will start at right tackle, with fast-charging George Locke at

Seldom does a center receive the thrill of crossing a goal line with the pigskin tucked under his arm, and less seldom is a photographer present when such a rare event does occur. But when Santa Clara defeated Arkansas this season, 21-6, Photographer Ted Ellsworth was present to snap Center Johnny Schiechl on his way to a Bronco touchdown.

LUCKY No. 17?

the other. Johnny Schiechl, great center, will be flanked by two able senior guards, Russ Clarke and Jerry Ginney.

In the backfield are Ray McCarthy, a blocker and signal caller reminiscent of Nello Falaschi; Jim Barlow, fast moving right half and punting mainstay of the Missionites; Bruno Pellegrini, agile triple-threater and "all-purpose" left half, and "Wild Bill" Gunther, slashing senior fullback.

There's the starting outfit—a team, which, as a second unit last Fall, repulsed every touchdown drive levelled at it and scored the winning Sugar Bowl touchdown. Three tried and proven juniors and eight veteran seniors comprise this great aggregation.

Along about the start of the second quarter, Shaw will send in his "Shawnees" boasting of one sophomore, six juniors and four seniors. No matter how tough the going is, Shaw has great confidence in this somewhat less experienced eleven, and not once this year have they played less than 15 minutes per game.

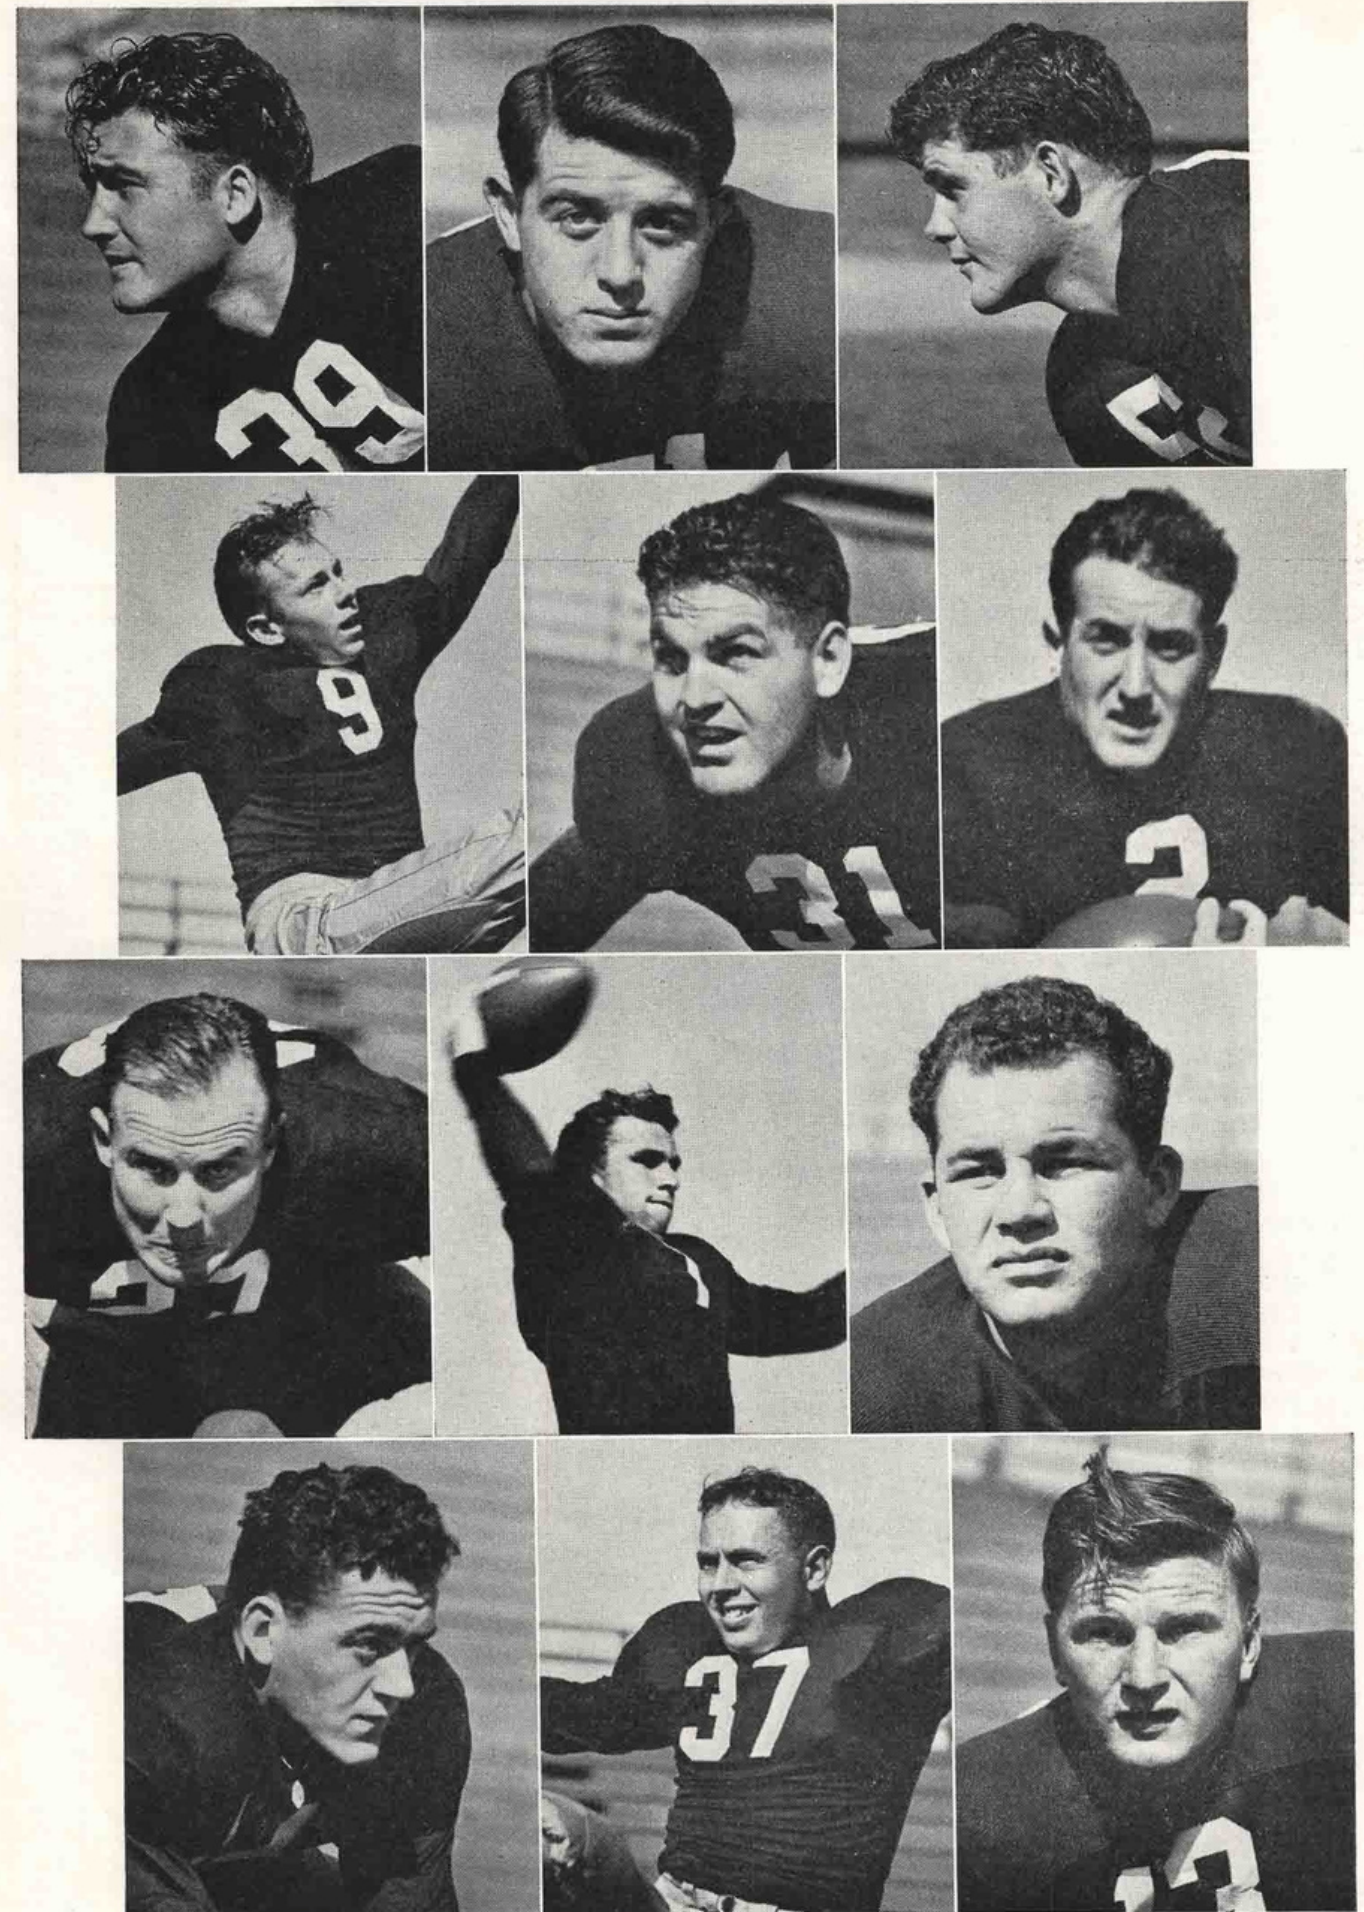

Here's how they'll line up: Jesse Coffe and Joe Lacey at the ends, Nick Stubler and Walt Smith at the tackles, Ben DeBenedictis and "Vester" O'Connor at the guards, and John Billick at center. In the backfield will be found diminutive but capable George Hamilton at quarter, Tom Gilbert and Dick Clark at the halves, and Jack Roche at fullback.

If injuries necessitate further replacements, Shaw will have a flock of able and partly-experienced reserves in John Thom, end; Bill Toomey and Andy Stolarz, tackles; Bill Grul, Frank Hagan and Paul Williams, guards; Lee Stanfel, center; Jim Williams, quarterback; Joe Hoyt and Jim Johnson, halfbacks; Johnny Hanna and Bob Gray, fullbacks.

Leading his teammates in this all-important contest will be Pellegrini, the clever and versatile left-half of the Broncos.

YOUR COACH

By GLENN WHITTLE

Undoubtedly the character of the young manhood of America is most vitally affected by the college football coach. Many people think of this teacher as a professional, hired to turn out winning football combinations. Excellent teams are certainly a desirable asset to any college or university but the winning of games is only a small part of the service which the coach renders to his community and his country.

The young man is taught to "carry on" even in the face of adversity. He must fight for his position; often times against tremendous odds. He must be a gracious victor today; yet walk hand in hand with defeat a week hence. He must be a true sportsman; ready to play the game hard, but fair. He must be obedient to discipline; yet never robbed of his individual initiative. Graciousness, determination, sportsmanship, obedience, discipline, initiative, courage and cooperation—all developed in this one grand game—football. And who is the guiding genius in the development of these necessary character traits? None other than the football coach.

Little wonder that today most fathers cast their all into the hands of the coaches for guidance, firmly convinced that, as a group, they go farthest because they inculcate in the heart and mind of the young man those traits so necessary to a successful life.

The responsibilities placed on the shoulders of the football coach constitute a social challenge which has been, and is being, admirably accepted by every mentor in the country. Young players of all colors, creeds and nationalities are being blended together on the various gridirons of the nation; forming a clean cut, wholesome and energetic group from which the majority of tomorrow's leaders will be chosen.

"Well, That's '30' for Today!"

By BILL BETTENCOURT

"Well, that's 'Thirty' for this season!"

Win or lose to the Broncos of Santa Clara, that's what the Galloping Gaels of Saint Mary's will say after today's game. To 40 sons of the Red and Blue, it will be "Thirty" until next September, but to seven, "Thirty" signifies the end of their collegiate gridiron careers.

Jerry Dowd, Mike Perrie, Ralph Jack, Lou Rimassa, Harry Aronson, Ken Hardy, and Wally Garard this afternoon will be playing their farewell roles in the Little-Big Game.

Dowd, a senior from San Francisco, has distinguished himself by his work at center and by his outstanding punting ability. Perrie, whose home town is Spokane, Washington, has been tabbed the "iron man" of the Gaels. The Spokane gridder went through all of his prep and collegiate games without an injury. But, in practice prior to the U. S. F. game last month, Perrie sustained an injured shoulder. He was out of the Don tilt, but he fooled everyone by playing most of the game against the terrific Rams of Fordham.

Jack, who claims Ottawa, Illinois, as his and Slip's home town, has played three years of stellar ball at right guard. Consistent, Jack has proved to be one of the best of the Gael linemen. Against Fordham critics said Jack was the best lineman on the Gotham gridiron.

Rimassa, right halfback from Watsonville, California, has been another consistent regular because of his blocking ability and his speed and shiftiness as a ball porter.

Aronson, another San Franciscan, for three years has alternated at the right halfback spot, and against Fordham last week he played the greatest game of his career for the Moraga Marauders.

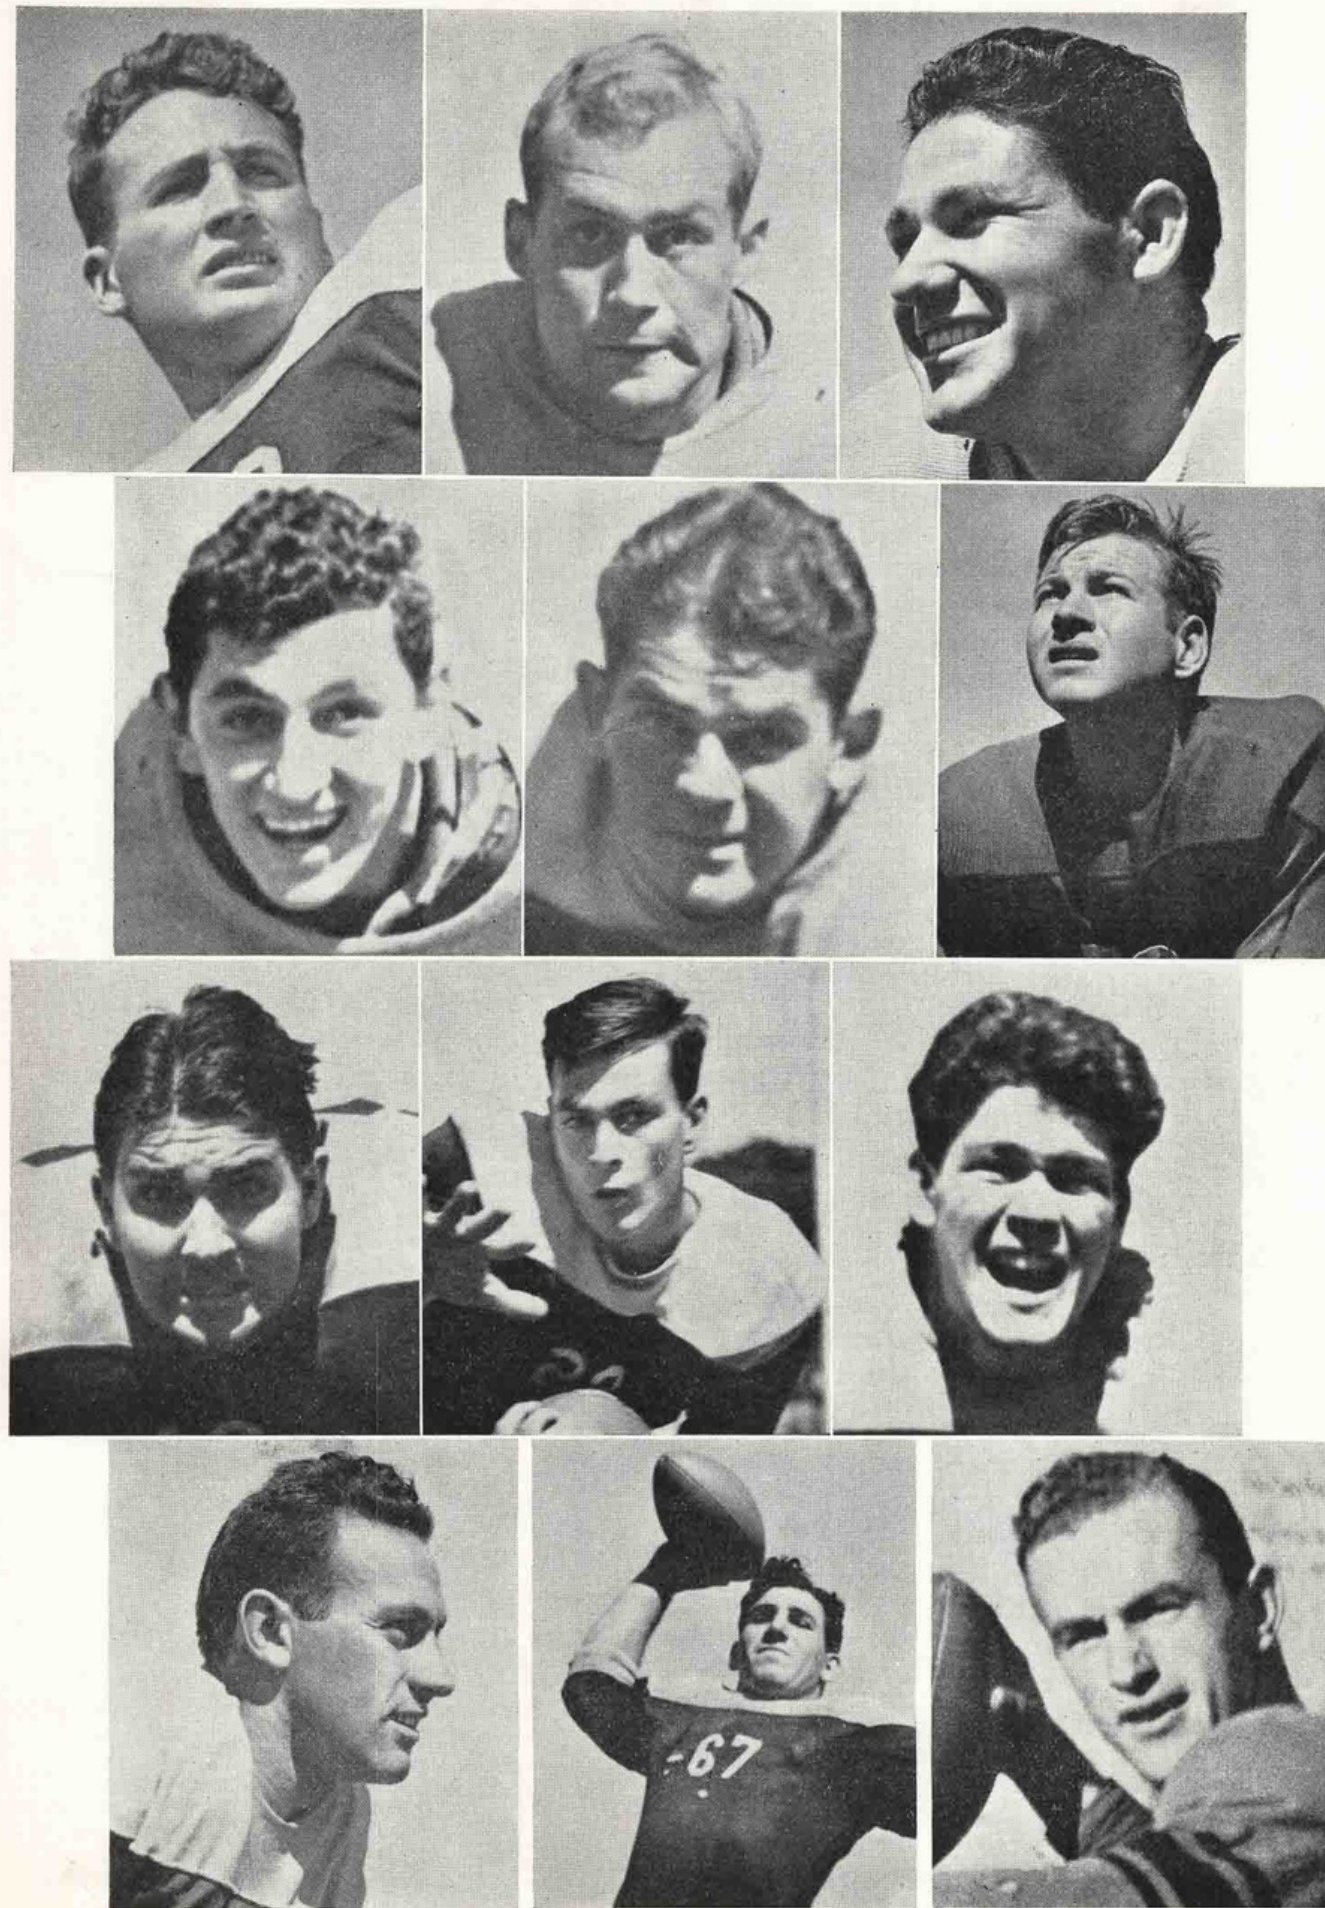

Garard, the "boy who came back," this year played in a new position, tackle, but played it like a veteran. Hardy, left guard from Oakland, also was a former Gael center who this year was stationed at guard and turned in a good season's work.

"WELL, THAT'S '30' FOR TODAY!"

The Bell Ringers of Moraga, it must be admitted, did as well as was expected of them this season. Underdogs, the Madigamians fell 90 seconds short of defeating the California Bears. A sophomore team, Saint Mary's came back to whip Gonzaga, Loyola, Portland, and a tough but smooth-functioning University of San Francisco eleven.

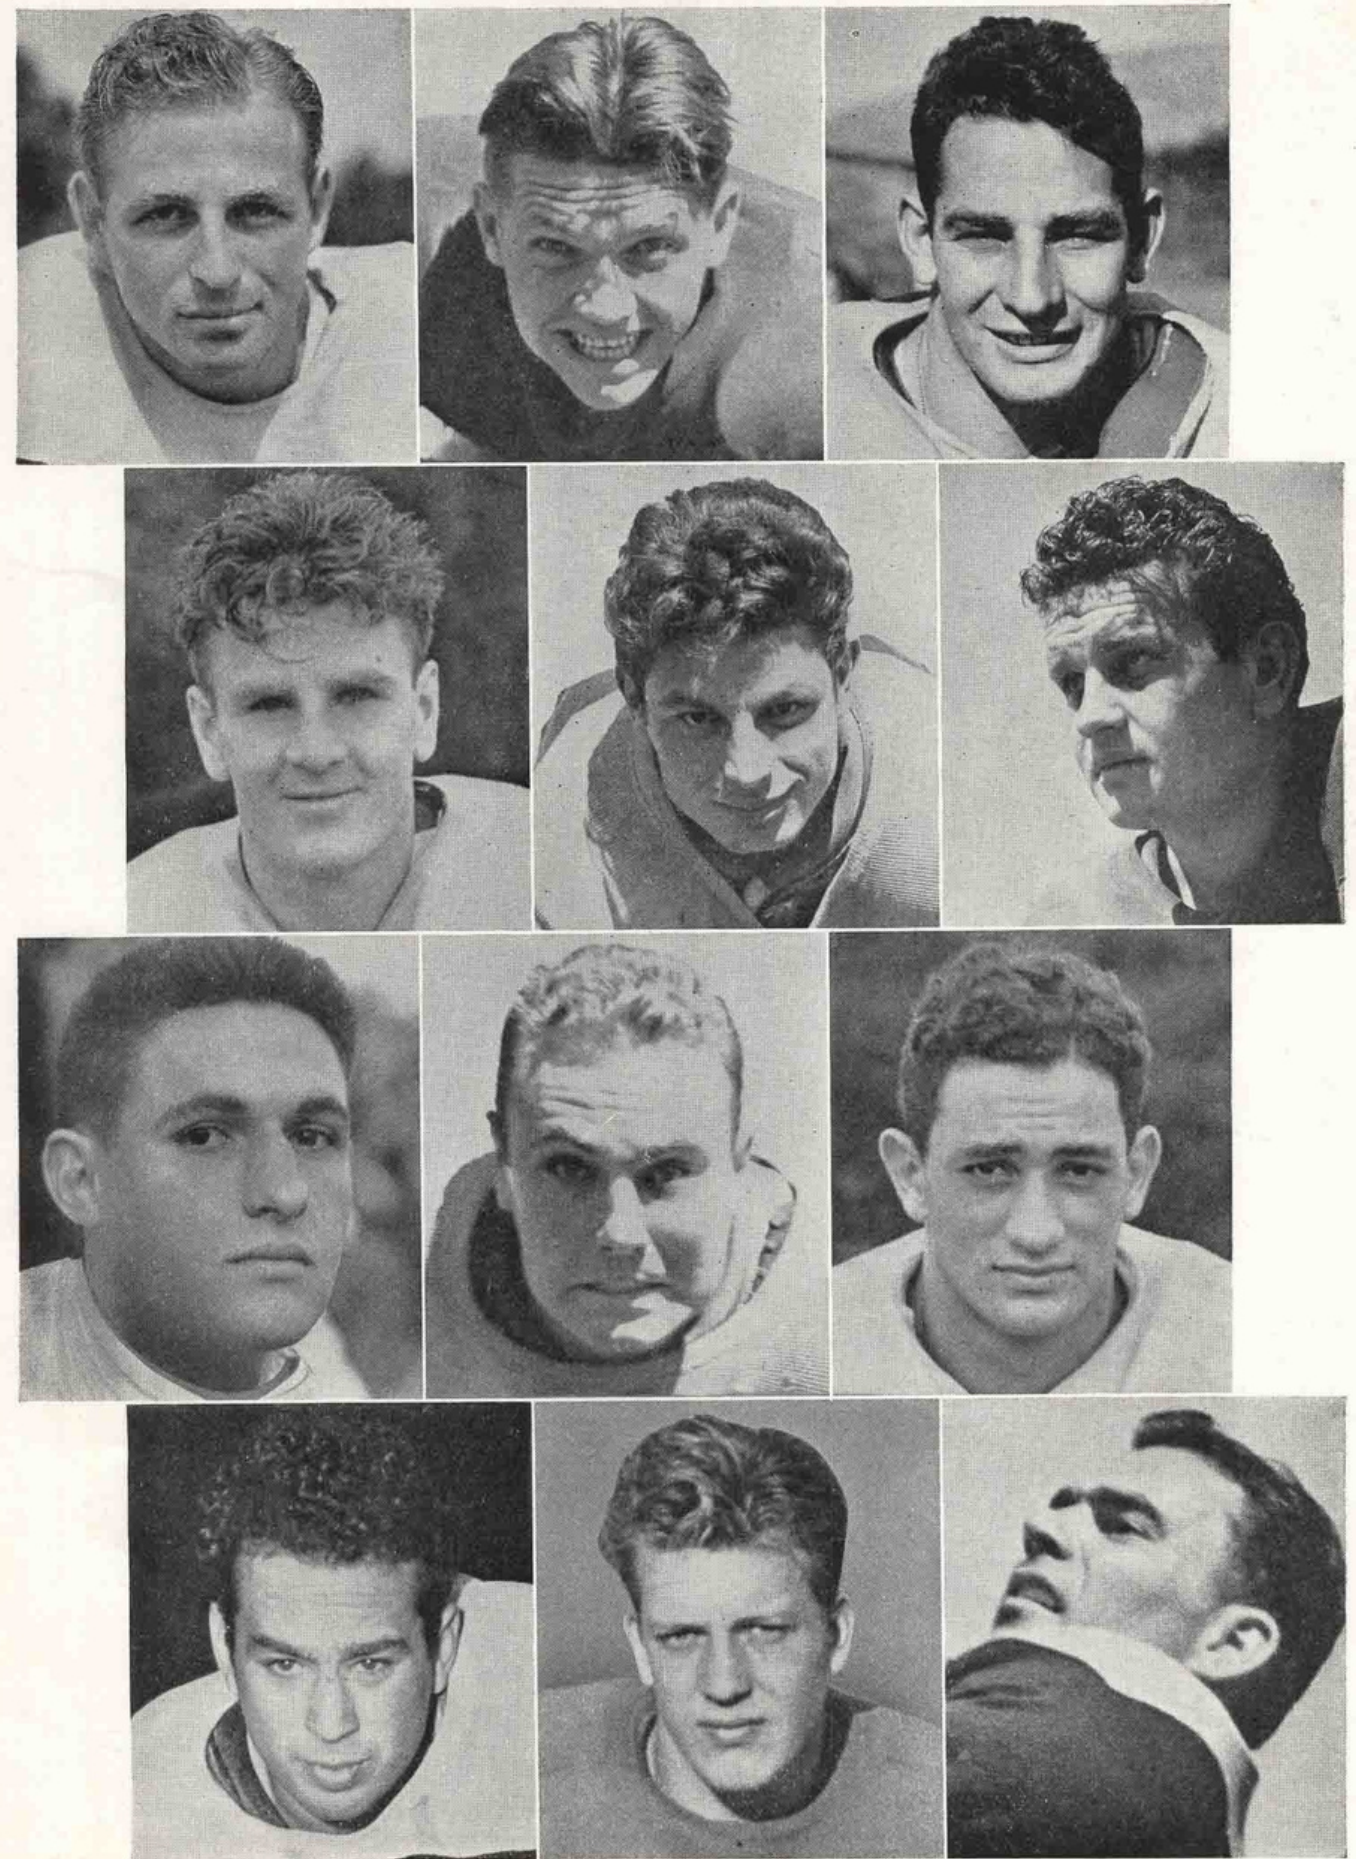

On the short end of tremendous odds, the Moragans were doped by experts to get trounced by Jim Crowley's Rose Hill Rams last Saturday at the Polo Grounds in New York. But the Gaels fooled Gotham—and Fordham. In their first threat, the Rams were thrown back three times by a vicious-charging Gael forward wall. On the fourth try, Fordham resorted to its last trick to score—a field goal. The try was good and the game was won. Another touchdown threat was nullified by the interception of a pass.

Madigan's proteges enter today's game confident of their ability to do a thorough job and really upset the old dope bucket. Gaels, as a rule, are not in the habit of losing to Broncos. The seven Gaels who play their final game today have suffered two defeats too many from the Bucking Broncos, and the other 40 don't intend to perpetuate a string of Santa Clara wins.

Not only is the Little-Big Game at stake, but also Santa Clara's record. The Gallopers want the Little-Big Game, and the Gallopers want to tarnish Buck Shaw's beautiful record of two straight Little-Big Game wins and sixteen consecutive victories. Then . . .

LITTLE-BIG GAMES

Broncos and Gaels have clashed 16 times in their modern "Little-Big Game" series. Twelve times the Madiganians have rebuffed the Missionites, thrice the Prune Belt gridders have conquered, and the 1933 game resulted in a 6-6 tie.

Bronco-Gael scores follow:

1922—St. Mary's.....	9- 7

CANDID BRONCOS

A—Head Yell Leader Jack Hayes flanked by Assistants Al Jones and Joe Tobin.

C—Art (The Voice of Kezar) McChrystal interviews lovely Jean Parker also at the Santa Clara-Arkansas game.

D—Henry Schmidt, trainer of the Broncos, watches his boys from the sidelines.

E—"Gentlemen of the Press" at work. We beg your pardon, "Ladies and Gentlemen of the Press."

F—The bands of Arkansas and Santa Clara together play the National anthem.

H—Larry Stringari and the Edmund Lowe water-wagon.

CANDID GAELS

A—Slip and some of his boys scout their traditional rivals for today's "Little-Big Game."

B—Jimmy Hatlo and his dog—looks something like "Aster," doesn't it?

C—"If It Rains Who Cares" sing St. Mary's students as the Gaels come from behind to drub the U. S. F. Dons.

D—While Trainer Frank O'Rourke and Dr. John Murphy look over Herb Smith's leg, Dante Magnani and Andy Marefos watch the progress of their teammates on the gridiron.

E—Buck Shaw and Assistant Al Ruffo, with pencil and plenty of paper, chart the victory of the Galloping Moragans over George Malley's Hilltoppers.

H—"We Are Three" are these Galloping Gael cheer leaders. Cheer king Ernie Russo is flanked on his left by LeRoy Sarment and on his right by Dave Cunningham, his two assistants.

I—Time for the U. S. F.-St. Mary's classic, so the boys pull back the covers and let the gridders go at it!

ALL-AMERICANS?

Great teams produce great stars, and great stars every year are selected for mythical All-American honors.

Today's game and today's teams are no exceptions. Probably the most outstanding candidate for All-American laurels is George Cantwell, brilliant St. Mary's left tackle, who has starred for his team all season.

That smiling face you see on page three belongs to Handsome George, and he belongs to San Francisco, having graduated from Balboa High School. A junior at St. Mary's, George has another year to strengthen his claim for All-American honors.

Santa Clara's highest bidder for All-American claims is Al Wolff, the left tackle. Not only are the two left tackles, but Wolff also hails from San Francisco. However, while Cantwell is only a junior, Wolff is playing his last season for Santa Clara.

IT BEGAN IN 1896!

By BILL BETTENCOURT

Broncos and Gaels began their gridiron rivalry in 1896, so we are told. This is the seventeenth "Little-Big Game," they say.

"Taint so!" we shout.

Saint Mary's and Santa Clara first met on the gridiron in 1896 and the Broncos won, 46-7. Being a Saint Mary's man, we dislike to admit Santa Clara won the initial conflict, but it's so, according to Brother Agnon's scrapbook, so help me!

If this is true—and newspaper clippings from 1896 prove it—then the "Little-Big Game" rivalry is only four years younger than the California-Stanford affair which began in 1892.

Thus, Saint Mary's-Santa Clara gridiron rivalry is 42 years old.

The second game was played two years later, in 1898, and, by golly, Santa Clara again won, and this time the score was 57-0. There then came a break, the two foes failing to meet on the athletic field again until 1909 when the Saint Mary's rugby lads trimmed those Santa Clarans, 5-0. In 1910 the Broncos triumphed, 7-3, but the Gael ruggers came back in 1911, winning, 5-3.

Another break appeared and lasted until 1922—the beginning of the "modern" series between the two rivals. At the end of the third quarter of the 1922 tussle, the Broncos were behind, 9-0. Then, with the Gaels leading, the Broncos came to life, John Logan receiving a pass and running 80 yards to score. As the game drew to a close, Santa Clara recovered a fumble deep in Gael territory. The Broncos drove to the Gael six-inch line. Here Saint Mary's held for four downs.

In 1923, with Saint Mary's leading, 9-0, Storm of Santa Clara intercepted a pass in the second quarter and raced 40 yards through a desperate Gael eleven to score. Bud McKee converted . . . and in the third quarter he kicked a field goal to give the game to Santa Clara, 10-9.

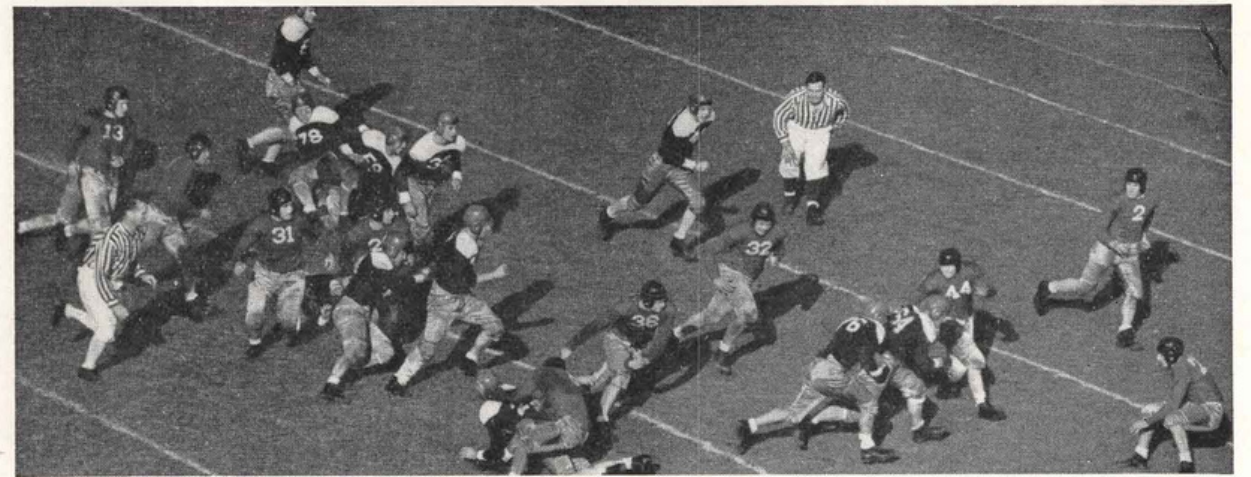

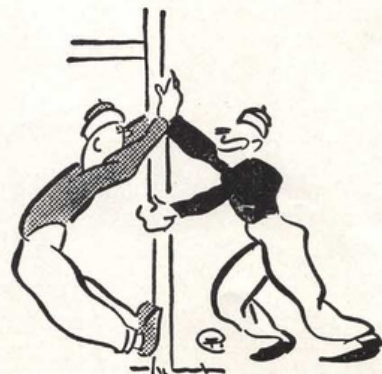

But in 1924 the Bronco agony of defeat began. Accounting for 211 yards from scrimmage, Norman Strader led the Gaels to a decisive victory, 28-7. In this defeat Leonard Casanova established the greatest kicking performance of all time when he punted a ball 105 yards.

With Adam Walsh, captain of the Notre Dame Four Horsemen, assuming the head coach position, Bronco hopes went high in 1925. Playing their first game of the Notre Dame system, the Broncos lost, 19-7. But it was not until the final quarter that Norman (The Red) Strader, all-time Bronco jinx, opened up with his brilliant drives and scored two touchdowns.

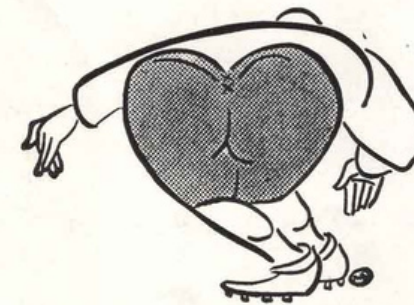

In 1926 a fighting Bronco eleven withstood the Gael charge until the last five minutes of the game when the Gaels tallied after a 40-yard march to win, 7-0.

Taking two forward passes for touchdowns, Ike Frankian was the star of Saint Mary's 22-0 victory in 1927. Again in 1928 Santa Clara suffered defeat, 20-7.

Maurice (Clipper) Smith stepped into the picture in 1929. Led by Al Tassi and Al Ruffo, the Broncos that year forced the Gaels to the wall, but finally yielded, 6-0. The Clipper started well!

Ferry leads Rimassa to within nine yards of Bronco goal last year.

On a pass interception, Patterson streaked 90 yards to a touchdown in 1930. Another pass, Stennett to Boyle, gave the Gaels a 13-0 triumph.

In 1931 it appeared that the Broncos would win. And it was not until Paglia, O'Donnell and Fuller were carried from the field, and not until Bud Toscani fled through the Kezar fog for a touchdown, to be followed later by another score by Charley Baird, that the Gaels won, 21-14.

Another thriller was staged in 1932. Two touchdowns were tallied by the Broncos during the first half while the Gaels were blanked. It looked like a Santa Clara triumph—at last! But those fighting Gaels came back, scored twice and converted twice to win, 14-13.

On the first play of the 1936 game, "Ambling Al" Nichelini went 60 yards around left end to score. The Broncos came back and marched 78 yards, tying the score on a pass from Frank Sobrero to Joe Salatino. And that was the final score, 6-6.

The famous "Battle of Lake Kezar" was won by Saint Mary's in 1934, the Gaels downing and drowning the Mission gridsters, 7-0. Sobrero, attempting to kick from behind his own goal, recovered a bad pass from center too late to get off a good kick. The ball rolled off the side of his foot, and Felix Pennino fell on it for the Gael touchdown. Lou Kellogg converted.

An even choice in pre-game betting, the Gaels won a one-sided battle in 1935, 10-0. Herm Mesiter booted a field goal early in the game, and in the second quarter Herb Schreiber scored the touchdown on a four-yard plunge.

And then came Buck Shaw, the silver fox, to the Mission school in 1936! Although the Broncos were favored to win, many didn't believe it could happen. But it did! And how! When the Broncos walked off the field, the Gaels were on the short end of a 19-0 score for the first time in 13 years. Passes to Manny Gomez and Norm Finney early in the game scored two touchdowns. In the third quarter Phil Dougherty blocked a punt and Lionel Rodgers took the pigskin over.

Passes spelled defeat for Saint Mary's in 1936 . . . and again in 1937. A toss, Pellegrini to "King" Fisher, scored the touchdown for Santa Clara, and Al Wolff converted for a 7-0 victory.

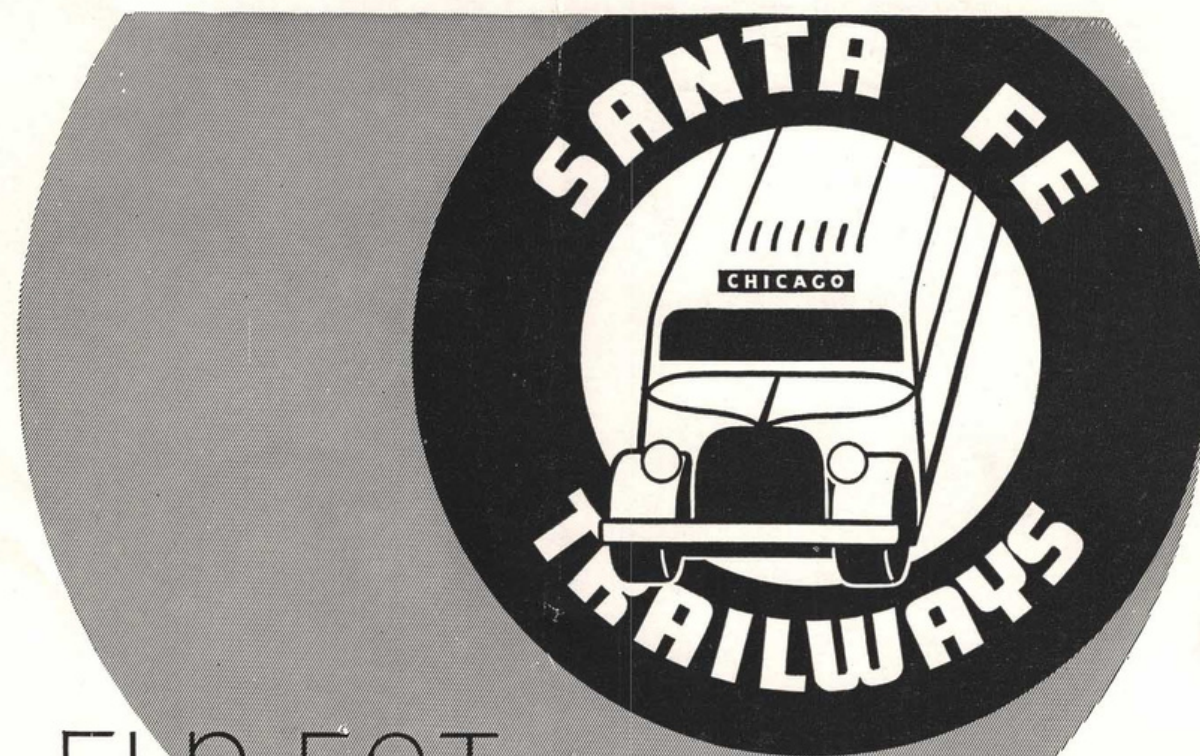

What will 1938 bring? We'll soon know the answer!

GRIDIRON SKIDS

There was a time the Stanford men performed uncanny stunts.
They set a Rose Bowl record of a point-a-minute once.
They kept the scorers busy as they sprinted with the ball,
But now their sprinting days are done—they cannot score at all.
There was a time the Golden Bear bestrode the Autumn scene
And trampled all its enemies upon the football green.
The royal crown no longer rests upon its equine brow—
The Golden Bear is nothing but a selling plater now.
Babe Hollinbery's Cougars were feared by Top Sarge Stub,
And every time they did their stuff, the game was in the tub.
But now with Autumn growing chill and meadows all aflame,
Babe Hollinbery's Cougars have yet to win a game.
There was a time the Oregon men were stout as tempered steel
And raged upon the football field with vigor, vim and zeal.
They romped about the continent and gathered wide renown,
Until a gang of set-ups from Stanford smacked them down.
Football kings of other years are trampled in the dust,
The strength and speed are gone to seed, their strategy a bust.
Their weekly upsets call to mind an ancient roundelay:
"It makes no difference what you were—it's what you are today."

—With apologies to George Phair!
