TROJANS

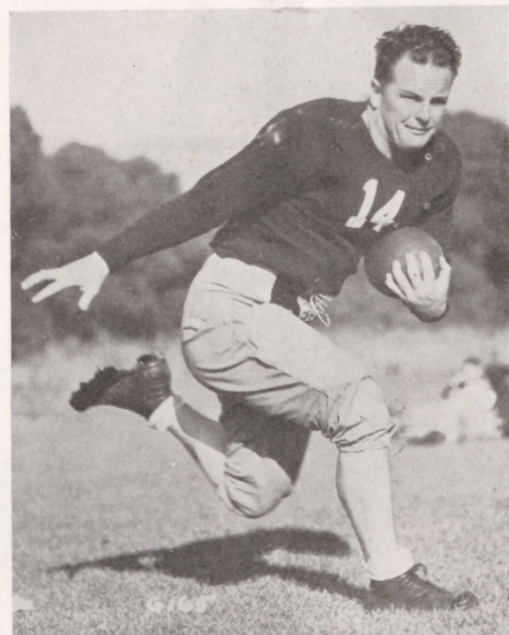

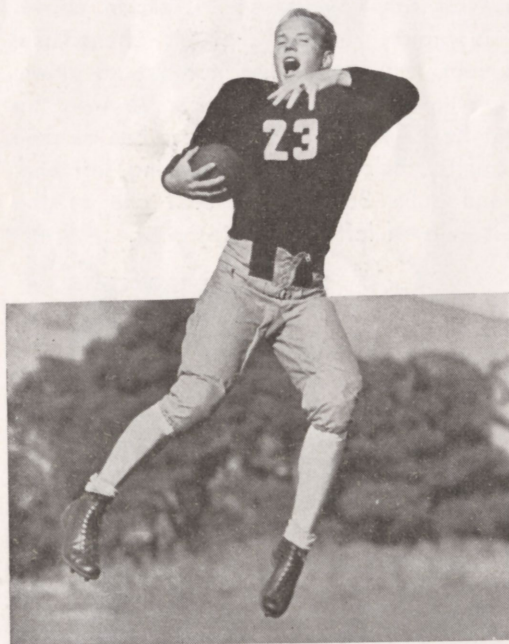

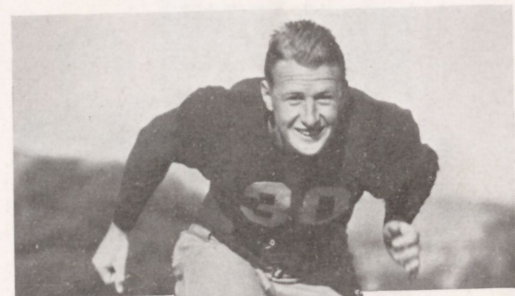

Bob Erskine, shown above, packed the ball for S.C. often last year, but now, as left tackle, the chance comes less frequently. However as a pass catcher he is a decided threat, and as a tackle he is distinctly a tower of strength. Below Bob is Alvie Coughlin, right tackle, who has earned great praise for his splendid work in early games, and who is giving Hueston Harper a battle for Harper's starting position.

Homer Griffith, quarterback, is shown above. Homer is rapidly proving that his phenomenal improvement last season has not slowed down, and opposing teams are apt to agree with the fans that he is one of the greatest ball carriers in the country. Below is Ward Browning, left end. Ward and Julie Bescos give S.C. one of the strongest pairs of left ends in the west.

S. C. fans have cause to remember Fred Canrinus (top) and George Canrinus (below). These brothers raised havoc with Trojan hopes two years ago. Veterans of the Gael squad, they shine in the classroom as well as on the gridiron. Both are seniors at St. Mary's, and both have starred consistently for three years. The brothers Canrinus are picked by Gael fans to reach all-Coast heights, perhaps to go beyond.

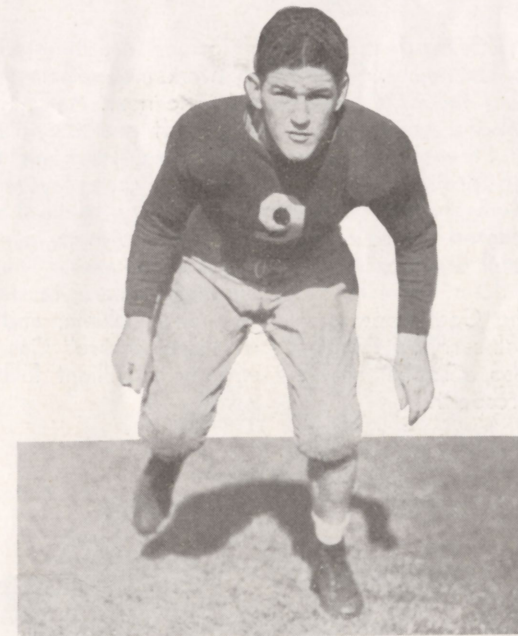

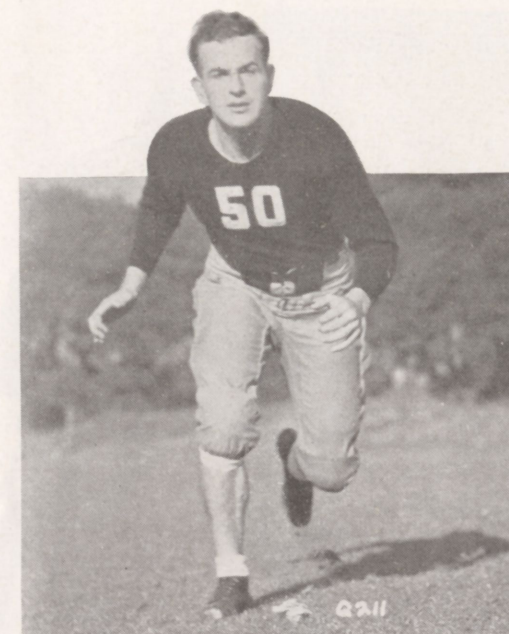

Merv Yates, the husky center, above right, has served two years on the Gael varsity, playing consistently good football day in and day out, and at times flashing brilliantly against stiff opposition. Below him is George Dodson, called "Dynamite." And he is a fullback who deserves his nickname. Like his teammates seen on this page, Dodson was a member of the 1931 squad, which handed the Trojans their last defeat.

Gaels

Hugh Gerardin, husky right guard, is the powerful Gael pictured below. Another member of the 1931 squad, Gerardin has starred at St. Mary's since his sophomore year. Below him is Sid Ahern, a fine quarterback, who also broke into the lineup two years ago. Ahern's signal calling and passing and Gerardin's powerful drive are expected to be important factors in the success of the 1933 Gael squad.

Carl Jorgensen, tackle, is seen at the top of this column. Two years of varsity service have earned Jorgensen a brilliant reputation, and the start of his senior year was an impressive one. Below him is Hugh O'Connor, guard. O'Connor, a sophomore, is expected to take his place eventually in the same classification as the seniors with whom he shares the page. Hugh is a brilliant prospect and a valuable reserve.

Opposing

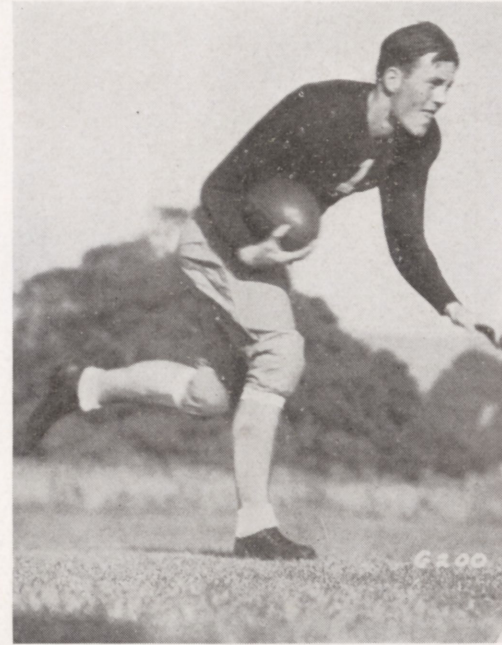

The two men in the left column are counted on to do much of the heavy work involved in stopping the St. Mary's men in the next. Aaron Rosenberg, above, is the Trojan left guard, and Larry Stevens, below, is right guard. From his roving position "Rosey" stops many a play which seems headed for scoring territory, while Larry, planted firmly in the line, breaks up many a powerful drive before it can get under way.

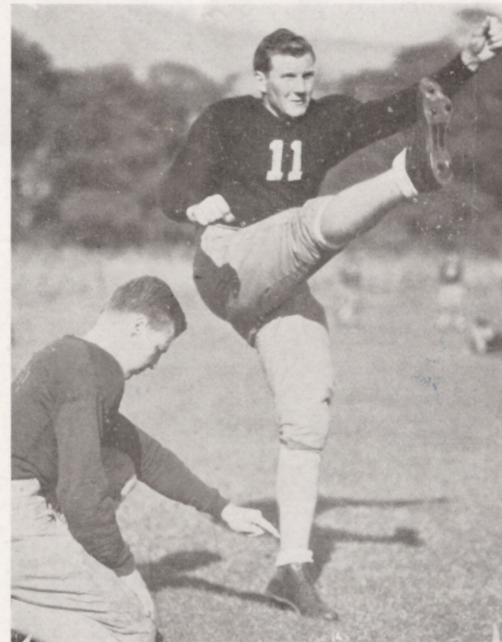

John Yezerki, 238-pound sophomore tackle, is the Gael uppermost in the next column, and his ball-carrying teammate is "Fighting Joe" Cassidy, also a sophomore, but already a brilliant fullback prospect.

Forces

Here are a pair of Trojans who performed brilliantly last week, and a trio of Gaels who may do so today. Above is Julie Bescos, left end, pass-catcher de luxe, and a fine defensive end. Below is "Inky" Wotkyns, a line-smashing fullback who is always good for yardage. In the next column are George Wilson, brilliant halfback for the Gaels, carrying the ball, and below him Phil Baker, tackle, place-kicking with Hugh Sill, half-back, holding the ball.

RICHFIELD

Above, Johnny Dye, Trojan center, is charging into the camera. Johnny, a former guard, has developed almost overnight into a capable center. In this, his third year as a varsity man, Dye has again established his value to the team. Captain Ford Palmer, below, needs no introduction. His fame as a right end was established last year, and he adds to that fame with every contest.

Southern California Band

Back from a trip around the world is Harold William Roberts, director of the famous Trojan band, and back ready to entertain you this afternoon and every afternoon when the S. C. eleven appears in the Coliseum are more than 125 well-trained musicians. Today the Trojan band, with new stunts planned, is ready to put on an entertainment which will complete a perfect football day.

The Trojan band is so much a part of Trojan football that no game can be considered complete without its presence in the Coliseum. Saturday after Saturday the student musicians have appeared between halves at home games. They have travelled to Stanford and California on alternate years to add their share to the pageantry of the big games in the north.

But the Saturday afternoon program is not the only activity of the band. Director Roberts' organization, together with the Men's and Women's Glee clubs visits many cities each year, playing before school and college audiences, clubs, and other groups. The band tours are literally triumphal parades, with throngs greeting the S.C. musicians in every town on their itinerary.

Unlike any other school in the United States, the University of Southern California features a novel singing group. Known as the Trojan Male Chorus, the men's vocal organization fills the spot ordinarily occupied by the average college glee club, and in addition it acts as the singing unit of the band and in all other ways supplements the band program. Such an arrangement consequently provides little opportunity for comparison with other glee clubs which attempt only formal music. It is to the credit of the Male Chorus, however, that it can provide a formal concert or act as a dramatic company if necessary to put across a stunt at a football game, which by the way, is no small task in itself.

The Women's Glee club has been acclaimed as one of the leading women's choral organizations of Southern California. Through the stimulation and development of the vocal talents and the additional opportunity for instrumentalists, the club has acquired a number of small groups within itself which tend to enhance the programs which it presents.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO FLY THE MAIL AT NIGHT

● A. M. WILKINS has flown the night air mail over 150,000 miles for TWA. It takes healthy nerves to hang up a record like that!

● WILKINS joins a fellow pilot, W. Niedernhofer, at Newark Airport, for a chat and a smoke. "Camels never ruffle or jangle my nerves," Wilkins says.

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. They are milder, richer in flavor. They never tire your taste or get on your nerves.
